It is not a cheat, neither you have to install any third party tool. It is an exploit that is a in-game but that allow users to easily complete Inside Track mini-game which carries reward of 20k chips. The best thing about this GTA online glitch is you do not really have to win the race. By pressing a few set of keys on your console or pc you can win the race and repeat the process to make more. It is extremely important to use this glitch once in a while, and not repeatedly. Rockstar is strict about its GTA online policies and will ban accounts who found to be cheating. You can still test this method and it fails to work then Rockstar might have patched the game. But why not give it a try, it is a matter of 20k chips. What is GTA Online Inside Track glitch? Walk into the Casino and there you will find various mini-games. One of them is a terminal that unlocks virtual horse racing. A kind of mini-game where you are betting on a horse, and it wins you make a lot of money. Visit the Inside Track of the building, and interact with one of the terminals. The goal of Inside Track is to select a virtual horse that can win the race. You can play solo and with other players. To use the Inside track glitch go solo. The race takes place every 5 minutes if you are taking part in the main event. If you are playing solo then there is no limit, you can bet on back to back. Select the Single Event option and select the horse. If the horse wins you get the money, this is what the game rules are. But there is a glitch that can help you to end this race fast and grab the money. Place a bet first, and then select your horse. Horse 1 or 2 have the maximum chances to win. Press and hold X or A to increase your bet then tap D-pad down. Do not release X or A. The race will start, keep holding X or A until the race is over. Rockstar Games have laid down the law and finally addressed the casino chip glitch that had been letting players rack up millions of dollars in GTA Online. In the vast world of GTA Online, you need cash to do pretty much anything. You can grind out jobs and races for hours on end in the hopes of getting a few hundred thousand dollars, but getting all the way up to big money levels takes some serious time and dedication. In a bid to bypass this grind, and also avoid buying Shark Cards with real money, players have used a handful of glitches to get what they want. The most recent, the casino chip transfer exploit, had been letting GTA Online players rack up millions upon millions of dollars, but now Rockstar has clamped down. Rockstar Games GTA Online players can make some serious cash with the in-game casino. [ad name="article1"] The Grand Theft Auto developers have started rolling out account wipes and bans for players who are found falling foul of this glitch. If you have had a reset on your GTA Online profile, you'll be greeted with an in-game alert notifying you of the changes to your account and character – with your Maze Bank balance either seeing a huge chunk missing or being completely reset, leaving you without any money. Read More: Why fans think GTA 6 will be revealed on May 12 Anyone who escaped a ban on their account, though, could receive one further down the line. Rockstar's support page addressing the casino chip glitch noted that further abuse will result in a suspension or permanent ban. Screenshot by Rockstar Games Players who fall foul of further exploits could be permanently banned. [ad name="article2"] However, some players who claim to have not used the exploit have reported that they have been deducted some cash, so you might find that your bank balance isn't as healthy as it once was. Though, you can get some of that back by playing at any point in May for a free $500,000. Plenty of exploits similar to the casino chip transfer one still remain in GTA Online, so we could see a wider crackdown by Rockstar in the near future if players continue to rack up millions upon millions. If you seen this last time, you should be aware that it is ridiculously OP and that you can take an account from $0.000 to 100,000,000,000 in minutes. There is a chance RS will impose money wipes, HOWEVER, that did not happen to anyone who done the chip glitch the last time it was around. So, as with any glitch go ahead at your own risk. In order to SAVE this money, there are some extra steps which have not been included out of respect for the founders. Though it is not very hard to figure out. Before you say this is useless without the SAVE method, try using your brains and working it out, ITS NOT VERY HARD. At least that way you may have some respect for it..... Steps : Perform SPMP as per my SPMP Thread or other working SPMP And have a good amount of casino chips already, the more you have the faster the process will be. Once in online with SPMP, you will need the help of 2 friends. Ask them to start up a 2 player race, they will need to create it in creator if they don't have one already. Its a fairly easy process. Just set the race to all defaults and set the player limit to 2 and the race distance to at least 0.67 miles, then name and publish this race. Now they start up that race, play the race but both wait inside. Now you will join them and get the race full alert, and you will accept the alert to wait till a space becomes available. Now you will ask one of your friends to quit the race and you will get an alert saying that a space has become available. Wait on this alert and now ask the remaining friend to leave the race then you will accept the alert. Now if done correctly nothing will happen after you accept the alert and you will be able to use the character selection wheel to change to an SP character. Now as any sp character you can walk into the casino and repeatedly withdrawal chips over and over allowing you to gain Billions in a matter of minutes. The Save method is on its way soon. But it is not that hard to figure out. SAVE METHOD . :) Page 2 Log in to follow creators, like videos, and view comments.
