Laravel blade form hidden

I have an "artist" resource, and on the show route page I have a form. I am using Laravel Blade syntax. As part of this form, I am trying to send the page ID to the back end of a Laravel 4 project. I am doing it this way: {{Form::hidden('artist-id',null,array('id'=>'{{$artist->id}}',));}} However, when using this, the browser throws an error, because it is not rendering the $artist->id variable within the brackets before the outside brackets of the input form. Is there a way around this or another way to pass back this variable for the resource? Thank you! Usually, this is used in Blade templates. Just pass the name and value to the method. {{ Form::hidden('invisible', 'secret') }} This creates a very simple element which looks like the following. To add other attributes, pass a third argument to the method. This third argument must be an array. {{ Form::hidden('invisible', 'secret', array('id'=>'invisible_id')) }} Now the input has an id attribute. Check out : Creating a Hidden Input Field If still not work check you project have Laravel Collective installed In controller method check public function store(Request $request) { $name = $request->input('name'); } I'm trying to make hidden input and set some value in blade template but it isn't hidden and is visible on the page. This is the field {{ Form::hidden('price', '') }} I have tried without tags because as I read everything in {{ }} in blade templates is read like php... so this {{ Form::hidden('price', '$item['price'] * $item['quantity']) }} Throw error 'syntax error, unexpected 'price' (T_STRING)' 1 You want to create a hidden input field for your form. You know you could use the format but you want to do it the Laravel way. Solution Use the Form::hidden() method. Usually, this is used in Blade templates. Just pass the name and value to the method. {{ Form::hidden('invisible', 'secret') }} This creates a very simple element which looks like the following. To add other attributes, pass a third argument to the method. This third argument must be an array. {{ Form::hidden('invisible', 'secret', array('id'=>'invisible_id')) }} Now the input has an id attribute. Discussion This method uses the Form::input() method, passing "hidden" as the type. NOTE If you've bound the form to a model using Form::model() and the model has the same named attribute, then the value will come from the model. See Creating a New Model Based Form for details. How are you submitting the form? I just tested this code and it works for me with Laravel 5. routes.php Route::resource('test', 'TestController'); Controller public function create() { return view('test.create'); } public function store() { dd(Input::get('hiddentitle')); } test/create.blade.php {!! Form::open() !!} {!! Form::hidden('hiddentitle', 'title info') !!} {!! Form::submit('Go') !!} {!! Form::close() !!} results "title info" I am unclear on exactly what you are trying to do. If you post your attempts I could answer your question better. I believe you would like to do something like this. @foreach ($user->books as $book) @if(empty($book->title)) {!! Form::open() !!} {!! Form::hidden('hiddentitle', 'title info') !!} {!! Form::submit('Go') !!} {!! Form::close() !!} @endif @endforeach i have read the answer by @ceejayoz and it looks good But if You Application is small scale and you dont need to implement the authorization policies there is as way Problems in your hidden attribute it Wiil be readable by the user by using view::source or even can inspect the page and rewrite it Solution What we are doing Encrypting the post_id in the hidden attribute of the form and decrypting it the controller For the encryption Docs refer Follow the steps Views From To Now the post_id is encryptd in the form Controller Add this namespace to top of controller use Illuminate\Support\Facades\Crypt; use Illuminate\Contracts\Encryption\DecryptException; Add this function to your controller public function decryptId($encryptedId="", $message='Not Found', $statusCode=404) { try { $decrypted =Crypt::decrypt($encryptedId); return $decrypted; } catch (DecryptException $e) { abort($statusCode,$message); } } and Your storeComment public function storeComment(request $request) { $postIdEncrypted = $request->post_id; $postIdDecrypted = self::decryptId($postIdEncrypted); $post = $postIdDecrypted; $id = Auth::id(); Comment::create(['body' => $request->body, 'user_id' => $id, 'post_id' => $post]); return redirect('/'); } Hope it helps
